COTTON PRICE REGAINS LOSS OF YESTERDAY

Yesterday's sharp decline in cotton was fully wiped out by a sweeping advance today, averaging about $6.25 a bale, and bringing quotations to within 200 points of the maximum advance momentarily touched on Wednesday.

The opening was at gains of 50 points or more, and while there were reactions throughout the day, the trend was strongly upward, and closing figures were within a few points of the day's highest. That the sharply higher prices prevailing the past week have not curtailed mill consumption was shown by continued large increases in spinner's takings.

New York October contracts closed this afternoon 125 points net higher at 19.55 cents, and December 118 points up at 19.83 cents. New Orleans October registered a net gain of 130 points, closing at 19.25 cents, and December was 124 points net higher at 19.49 cents.

Spots in New York were advanced 115 points to 19.80 cents and in New Orleans spots were marked up an even 100 points to 19 cents.

Spinner's takings for the week ending today were announced at 192,075 bales, compared with 141,685 bales the same week last year and 111,515 bales the same week in 1919. Since August 1 spinner's takings total 1,304,000, compared with 842,000 bales for the same period last year and 974,000 the same period in 1919.

Receipts on the local market are gradually increasing, a considerable sprinkling of new cotton appearing along with bales of the 1920 crop. Conway prices were higher today than New York quotations, strict middling cotton of 1-16 inch staple bringing 21 cents a pound and slightly better A few bales of low grade cotton were sold at 17 to 18 cents.

The price of cottonseed was advanced on the local market today, when the Conway Cotton Oil & Gin Company announced an increase of $3 per ton to $25. This is the highest price for the season and for the year.

GRIFFITH MAY DIRECT IRISH PEACE PARLEY

(By the Associated Press)

Dublin, Sept. 9.—According to rumors current in Dublin today, Eamon DeValera, president of the Irish republic, does not wish to be one of the plenipotentiaries appointed to confer with the British cabinet committee at Inverness, should the Sinn Fein accept the offer of Premier Lloyd George for further parleys.

DeValera is said to be willing to let Arthur Griffith, some times called the "brains" of the Sinn Fein, have absolute charge of further negotiations with the British cabinet.

No special meeting of the Sinn Fein cabinet has been called to consider the newest peace note from Lloyd George, but cabinet members are believed to be considering it informally preparatory to an early meeting.
